THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 7.

A PRIVATE STILL.-The Madison (Wis.) Courier tells this of a revenue officer who was sent into an illicit whiskey distilling district in Kentucky: He knew that illicit distilling was Kentucky: He knew that illicit distilling was going on, but he could get no basis to work from. Coming to an Irishman who was tolerably drunk, the officer tapped him on the shoulder and said. "My man, do you want to make ten dollars?" "Is it ten dollars?" said Pat; "sure and I do." "Then," said the officer, "show me a private still!" "I'll do the same; follow me, yer honor." The officer followed across lots and fields to the camp of a company of soldiers that had been sent there to aid the revenue officers. The soldiers were in line—dress parade. "Do you see that red-headed man?" asked Pat, pointing to one of the soldiers. "Yes," replied the officer. "He is," said Pat, "my brother. He's been in the service twelve years. He'll be a Corporal after a while, but he is 'a private still." "Ten dollars gone, and no illicit whiskey found" moralized the officer, as he wended his way back to
